1. Competent and qualified senior LIS professionals who also have modern knowledge of ICTs, library technology, library automation and digitization, modern information retrieval systems (at least having MLIS Degree from HEC recognized institution) should be engaged as resource persons. They should have their own libraries automated and digitized, if they are working librarians. Preference should be given to LIS regular faculty working in public sector universities, if available.
2. The workshop venue should be a multimedia-equipped computer lab.
3. All library software packages along with internet connectivity should be available in that lab.
4. Students should be given hands-on practice, activities and exercises.
5. All students should be advised to make their own e-mail accounts and practice sending and receiving e-mails with attachments.
6. All resource persons should be requested to prepare PowerPoint presentations of their lectures and share with LIS Department, AIOU. These PPTs should also be given to workshop attending students either by e-mail or on external devices.
7. Resource persons having PhD or MPhil degrees should preferably be hired.
8. All workshop topics should be covered thoroughly.
9. All practical content should be properly demonstrated and exercised.
